DECORATION PERSPECTIVE

The Need for Art in our Daily Lives

For over fifty years, Alchymia has explored the world of decoration as a living language: a place where craftsmanship, material research and artistic vision come together to shape surfaces with the power to tell a story. What once began as an aesthetic pursuit, guided by the hand of the artisan and the sensitivity of decorative tradition, has gradually evolved into something broader: a design approach in which art is no longer an applied embellishment, but a structural part of the space itself.

The 2026 collection is born from this evolution. Alchymia has transformed its heritage into a laboratory of innovation, developing new engineering and application techniques that allow decoration to move beyond the boundaries of flat surfaces. Textures, reliefs, material finishes and three-dimensional interventions now extend across wall coverings, doors, boiserie and furniture pieces, creating a continuous visual language that dialogues with architecture and with the way spaces are experienced every day.

The Need for Art in our Daily Lives is, before anything else, a question: how much beauty do we need in order to truly feel connected to the places we inhabit? In a time when interiors often risk becoming uniform and predictable, Alchymia chooses to bring art back into everyday life — not as something distant or untouchable, but as an intimate, functional and emotional presence.

A carved detail, a surface touched by light, a relief that changes with the observer's point of view: each element can turn the ordinary into something quietly extraordinary.

This collection invites the creation of interiors where decoration, furniture and architectural elements are no longer separate entities, but parts of a single, fluid narrative. Each project can therefore acquire an exclusive identity, shaped by nuances, volumes and atmospheres that make it unmistakably its own. A carefully crafted detail does not overwhelm: it enriches, adds depth, introduces rhythm and character. From this awareness comes a collection designed to make every space unique, elegant and ever-changing, restoring to daily living the

STARGATE

Decorated Door

Defined by its monolithic design, Stargate appears as an architectural threshold, conceived to transform an everyday gesture into an exclusive moment. The access handle, seamlessly integrated into the central ring-shaped decoration, emerges from warm metallic tones, catching the light and drawing the eye inward.

Its surface reveals a refined dialogue between brushed gold, deep graphic accents and sculptural reliefs, creating a rhythm that evokes natural markings while preserving a precise, composed and contemporary balance.

As the panels move, the circle separates and reforms, turning every passage into a silent ritual. Behind the handle, integrated light softens the strength of the design and gives depth to the decorated texture.

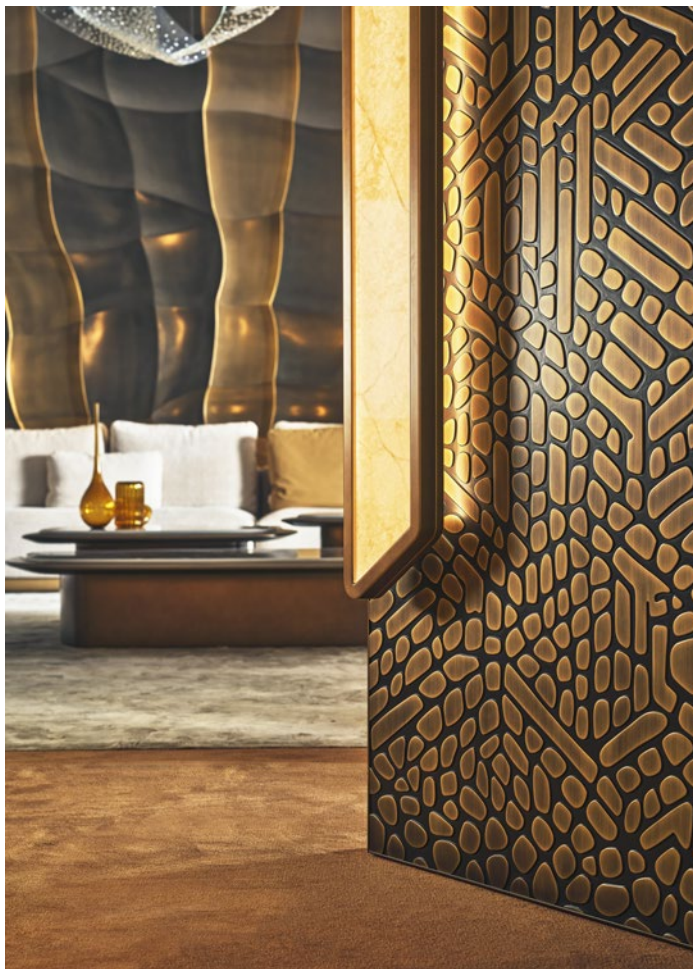

Stargate speaks of interiors designed as experiences: spaces where entering is not merely a transition, but a first revelation. Balanced in proportion and theatrical in presence, it wraps function in beauty, mystery and lasting elegance. A quiet, intense presence of rare allure.

ZENITH

Decorated Door

Zenith is conceived as a threshold of light and discipline, where geometry becomes matter and every passage takes on the breath of an exclusive experience. The door asserts its presence through monumental proportions and bronze tones, warm, almost liquid, wrapping the entrance in a theatrical yet measured aura. Across the surface, the radial decoration unfolds in lines and reliefs, composing a graphic texture that draws the eye toward the handle: a luminous vertical detail poised between function and architectural gem.

Light gathered within this element ignites soft reflections, reveals the depth of the texture and accompanies the movement of the panels like a silent invitation. Zenith interprets decoration as a total design vision, able to unite furniture and architecture in a single gesture. Each entrance becomes a prelude, a promise of interiors designed to surprise, welcome and remain in memory with elegant intensity, rare contemporary force and mystery.

STREAM

Decorated Door

Stream is born from the meeting of geometric order and organic vibration, a door that turns verticality into rhythm and material into narrative. Its broad surfaces, arranged in metallic modules with warm bronze and burnished gold tones, alternate smooth fields with textured inserts, where the relief seems to hold the movement of water, stone and time. The composition feels rigorous, yet never still: each line guides the gaze, each reflection opens a discreet depth, each texture introduces a quiet tension into the room.

In the act of opening, Stream reveals its scenic nature without excess, allowing light to slip between the panels and awaken the surfaces with soft, warm gleams. It interprets the entrance as a measured and intense experience, where architecture and decoration merge in a balance of understated elegance, living matter and luminous memory, able to make every interior feel exclusive, refined and deeply welcoming. A quiet signature, rich in poise.

HELIOS

Decorated Door

Defined by its radial motif, the decorative door Helios appears as an element suspended between light and presence, where the entrance takes on the strength of a solar mark carved into architecture. Its grand panels, wrapped in deep bronze tones and burnished reflections, reveal a decoration that expands from the centre outward, like energy held within the material. Organic, sculptural and vibrant lines move across the surface with natural intensity, guiding the gaze toward the circular handle: a luminous and precious detail that brings together functional gesture and scenographic allure.

As the panels move, the design separates and returns to unity, allowing light to filter through and transforming every passage into a suspended, intimate and solemn moment.

Helios expresses a new vision of the monumental door, where decoration, architecture and atmosphere merge into a single presence. More than simply introducing a space, it anticipates its character, depth and mystery with an elegance that feels pure, memorable and quietly enduring.

LEVANTE

Wall Decor

The Levante decorative wall is an ode to dawn and the rising sun, embodying the idea of transforming the space into a landscape where concentration and peace merge, creating an intimate experience of wonder and relaxation. This striking element serves as an architectural feature, redefining a space's identity in an experience where light, through its reflections, takes center stage.

JANUS

Table

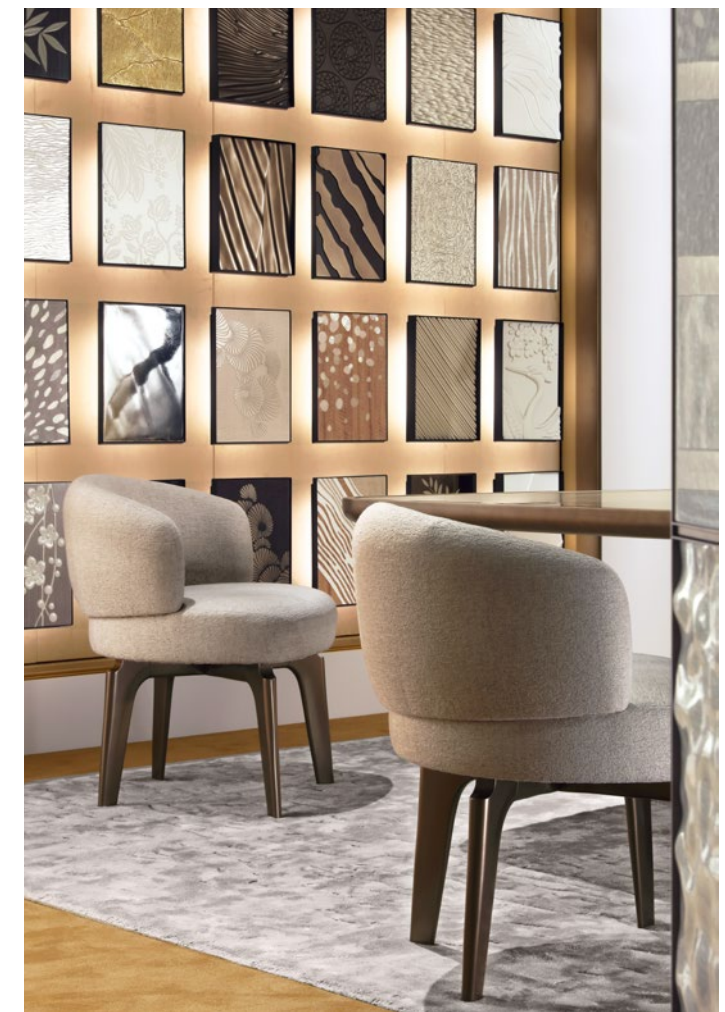

The Janus table stands as the scenic heart of conviviality, a table where matter, proportion and light create a monumental yet welcoming presence. Its generous top, shaped by soft lines and rounded corners, reveals a refined wood inlay: oriented geometries that animate the grain and turn the surface into a warm, precious landscape. Beneath it, the sculptural bases emerge as organic volumes, shaped by irregular cells and deep reliefs, where the bronze finish gathers golden reflections and gentle shadows.

JENNA

Armchair

The Jenna armchair's gentle, enveloping curves redefine the concept of seating as a haven of elegance. Its compact, sinuous silhouette enters refined interiors with measured proportions, full volumes and a quiet, discreet presence. The light upholstery, tactile and softly textured to the eye, enhances the roundness of the backrest and seat, inviting contact through a feeling of intimate warmth. Dark, slightly inclined legs lift the volume with grace and introduce a refined contrast between textile softness and architectural solidity.

SAPPHIRE

Console

Defined by its sculptural forms, the Sapphire console is conceived to inhabit the space with the quiet strength of a unique piece. Its elongated silhouette brings together architectural rigour and organic sensuality: a structure of wood and perforated metal supports a precious Patagonia quartzite top, enriched by deep veining, mineral reflections and warm tonal nuances that reveal the distinctive character of this noble natural stone.

The rounded edge, outlined by bronze details, softens the geometry and gently leads the eye across the surface, while the perforated base creates irregular openings that filter light and shadow like an organic pattern. Integrated lighting awakens the material from within, revealing depth, transparency and contrast with subtle theatricality.

Sapphire redefines the console as both atmosphere and function: a refined presence able to converse with walls, mirrors and decorative surfaces, transforming an entrance or living area into an exclusive, magnetic scene, where every detail speaks of balance, allure and precious memory.

CORAL BLOOM

Wall Decor

Coral Bloom is conceived as a sculptural garden suspended on the wall, a landscape of tactile corollas where light settles with grace and reveals unexpected depth. Large organic discs, shaped in a matte white finish, unfold like marine forms or silent blossoms, crossed by radial ribs that turn the surface into a living texture. Each relief gathers soft shadows, each curve guides the gaze, while integrated lighting filters between the modules and gives the composition a warm, enveloping and measured glow.

AVENUE

Sofa

Avenue is born from essential, almost ethereal lines, transforming the living area into a landscape of measured comfort, lightness and timeless ease. Its modular composition follows the space with natural fluency: generous seats, chaise longues, curved end elements and integrated accessories create a welcoming system, designed to adapt to different projects while preserving formal harmony.

MAREA

Armchair

Marea reveals its decorative essence through the liquid-metal detailing on its outer backrest: a fluid motif, sculpted into soft waves, that turns the armchair into a piece to be admired from every angle. From this detail emerges a dialogue between comfort and decoration, between functional gesture and artistic presence. Its enveloping body welcomes with natural ease through rounded armrests, a generous seat and soft cushions, while the warm rust-toned upholstery adds tactile depth and an intimate sense of calm.

LOTUS

Small Table

Defined by a sculptural sense of elegance, Lotus brings a strong visual presence to the living area through a warm, welcoming palette designed to invite moments of gathering, conversation and ease. Precious materials such as Patagonia quartzite and a warm copper-bronze metal finish enhance its refined, contemporary and exclusive character, while the two-piece composition naturally establishes it as the quiet focal point of the room.

ATOLLO

Small Table

Atollo embraces synthesis as its language: a compact, pure volume that brings to the living area the calm of a full form and the precision of a precious detail. Its pale, glossy base, crafted in mother-of-pearl-effect resin, supports the circular Patagonia Quartzite top like a small domestic monolith, poised between function and contemplation.

WIND WAVE

Wall Decor

A breath of movement flows through Wind Wave, shaping the wall into a sequence of waves sculpted in liquid metal and creating a striking material effect. Crafted in a range of bronze and burnished tones, the surface alternates curved modules and sinuous reliefs that capture the light with shifting intensity, giving life to a slow, enveloping, almost tactile visual rhythm.

DROPS

Small Table

Drops brings a soft, fluid rhythm to the living area through its teardrop silhouette, conceived as a family of small decorative islands. The tables sit together at different heights and proportions, shaping a gentle sequence that allows the space to be composed with natural elegance. The pale, glossy top carries a branching decoration in copper and golden tones, like a mineral trace suspended within the surface.

IOS

Small Table

The ios small table elevates the precision of a compact piece into a richer decorative expression. Available in different heights, its structure of slender stems and circular bases in a satin bronze finish supports the decorated top while enhancing its distinctly contemporary character.

Essential proportions open into a refined material narrative: wood grain, mother-of-pearl reflections and branching patterns create a measured rhythm across the surface, one that changes gently as the light moves.

FOREST RAIN

Wall Decor

The Forest Rain wall decor traces an abstract composition of sinuous lines, slender reliefs and precious reflections. A mother-of-pearl-effect resin ground welcomes an organic motif that flows like branches stirred by rain, transforming the vertical surface into a living, luminous texture. Sculpted veins, shaped with warm-toned metallic finishes, guide the eye along a fluid path, where every curve creates depth and subtle variations of light.
